legislative issues facing agriculture. On the Young Farmer and Rancher front, two of the four contestants competing in the Discussion Meet at the NYFB State Annual Meeting will be from our district. Our finalists include Brian Ziehm of Washington County and Jennifer Jennings of Montgomery County.

Albany

In mid October I contacted an ACFB member named Teri Conroy after reading her Albany Times Union blog "Farm Life." After attending the Annual Meeting in Clarksville, Conroy commented in her blog, "Farming is ancient, and in one way or another it affects every one of us." This comment addresses the importance of county FB growth. ACFB is 365 members strong and membership chairman Ed Kleinke hopes to increase this number during a spring membership drive.

Schenectady

SCFB is under new leadership. The addition of new board members brings creative outreach initiatives. In November, Mark James, NYFB membership and leadership development specialist, was invited out to the capital region to speak at the Eastern New York Dressage and Combined Training annual banquet.

The event was a huge success for NYFB since many more people in the equine industry could utilize their county Farm Bureaus. SCFB will continue to promote NYFB as a tool for equine owners for up-to-date tax information and legislative updates that impact the equine industry.

Rensselaer

On Nov. 10, RCFB President Dean Casey and I presented to a New Visions biology class at the SUNY Albany East Campus in Rensselaer. We had the opportunity to explain how New York Farm Bureau functions to a group of high school students. The experience reminded us of the need to include younger generations in the organization. We addressed questions on food safety and current economic conditions for farm-

Washington

At the WCFB Annual Meeting much discussion centered on the current dairy crisis. Members debated proposed resolutions on supply management versus limited supply management. Overall, the meeting represented a discussion undertaken by many county Farm Bureaus across the state.

Saratoga

This past fall the SCFB recognized Martin Hanehan with the 2009 John Hall Distinguished Service Award. Mr. Hanehan owns and operates Turning Point Dairy LLC in Saratoga Springs and has been active on the SCFB board and off the board promoting agriculture.

The SCFB set a date for the next Rural Urban Dinner. On March 26 the dinner will be held at Panza's Restaurant on Saratoga Lake. The Rural Urban Dinner serves as a mixer for those inside and outside the agricultural community.

Montgomery

MCFB is working beyond the county board to accomplish the mission of NYFB. In late October, MCFB joined the Montgomery County Chamber of Commerce. The new relationship will help strengthen lobbying efforts in the county. It also provides the Chamber with an agricultural resource for program planning.

Membership remains a top priority for MCFB. Membership chairman Gordon Schaufelberg put together a membership drive in November. He also plans to do so this Spring.

Fulton

FCFB is active on a local equine issue in the town of Johnstown. The town is rezoning many areas in the township from agricultural to commercial to force out animal agriculture. This issue was discussed at the county Annual Meeting and a resolution was adopted opposing this practice. Vice President Tamara Healy is coordinating the effort to address the issue.
