is expected to be taken up for a vote by the full U.S. Senate in mid-April. NYFB has concerns over FDA's expanded authority for mandatory recalls, increasing inspection rates and costly fees and inspection requirements which are too great a financial burden for our family farms.

Of particular importance, NYFB is working to have the following included in S.510 to assure business sustainability and profitability while maintaining food safety:

1) Inclusion of producer indemnification in case of a wrongful food safety recall, as was experienced by the tomato industry in 2008.

2) Exemption from traceability requirements for direct marketers, such as farm stands and farmers' markets.

3) No fees to farmers as a result of mandatory regulatory requirements.

NYFB continues to work with New York Sens. Charles Schumer and Kirsten Gillibrand and other similarly minded organizations to have these changes made before S.510 is taken up by the full U.S. Senate.

AG COMMITTEE: Stakeholders weighed in

This point was made clearly on March 1 in the Agriculture Committee public hearing on this issue. That hearing was part of a concerted effort to ensure the public was heard on this bill before any vote was taken. Through roundtables, hearings, letters and other meetings, farmworkers and farmers, consumers, advocates and opponents all weighed in.

This is the democratic process working. This is the type of scrutiny and analysis all controversial bills should undergo before a vote. The vote on Tuesday was based on the facts. Each lawmaker was given the opportunity to vote their conscience. Some may not like the outcome and surely they will be vocal, but the loud voice is not the voice of the majority, nor is the loudest group automatically right on an issue. In this case, my vote of "no" was a vote in support of our agriculture industry in New York State and our farmers who are struggling.
