to Oil and Gas Leasing" and meeting with members and legislators in Texas provided an excellent network for CCFB. County President Bradd Vickers also serves on the Natural Gas Committee to the Chenango County Board of Supervisors.

The CCFB booth at the Chenango County Fair featured their work on energy, particularly from the "Field to the Fuel Tank," a program the county has been using to encourage farmers to consider growing fuel crops in rotation and on marginal land. CCFB is working with legislators, producers and manufacturers of oil seed presses as well as New York and Vermont state colleges to address the energy issue. CCFB has been a catalyst in the startup of the Southern Tier Agricultural Energy Project, which is a program that brings energy crop producers and biodiesel processors together.

CCFB is working with farmers and legislators to help address some of the dairy issues, as the county believes the crisis also affects the overall economic stability of the region.

Livingston County FB hits the airwaves

By AMANDA KRENNING
akrenning@nyfb.org

Genesee County Farm Bureau planned its Annual Meeting on Oct. 6 at Terry Hills Golf Course. Congratulations to Robin Keller who was re-elected as the Genesee County Farm Bureau President. Dale Stein, former Genesee County Farm Bureau President, was the featured speaker. The Genesee CFB Board will hold a non-renewal calling night at its board meeting in November. It also is making plans to hold an additional membership campaign in February and are gearing up for a successful membership year.

Livingston

The Livingston County Farm Bureau is sponsoring a radio advertising campaign for membership this month. It is doing a membership campaign in November and targeting farms and agribusinesses with three different ads about joining Livingston CFB. The county Annual Meeting will be held on Oct. 14 at the Conesus Inn and Public Policy director Julie Suarez will be the featured speaker. I would also like to take this opportunity to thank out-going Livingston CFB President Andrew Smith for his years of service to the county.

Monroe

Monroe County Farm Bureau held its county Annual Meeting in September again this year. The event took place at Triphammer Grill, which overlooks the Genesee River Gorge in downtown Rochester. This was a different venue for Monroe CFB and helped to generate more attendance at their meeting. Dean Norton was the featured speaker and there was intense discussion on the labor issues facing New York state. Congratulations to Cathy Martin, who was elected as the new Monroe CFB President and a heart-felt "thank you" to out-going Monroe CFB President Kim Zuber for his dedication to Monroe County agriculture.

Niagara

The Niagara County Farm Bureau will hold a non-renewal calling night on Oct. 15. This is the third year the county has held the non-renewal calling night.† They incorporate calling non-renewals with reminding people to attend the Annual Meeting. It makes a huge difference in attendance at the meeting. This year's Niagara CFB Annual Meeting will be held Oct. 22 at the Niagara County Cornell Cooperative Extension. Betty Wolanyk will be the featured speaker and she will be discussing misconceptions about agriculture.

Orleans

Orleans County Farm Bureau held its policy development meeting for the membership on Sept. 10. There was intense discussion on dairy and labor issues. The Orleans CFB Annual Meeting will be held Oct. 21 at the Orleans County Cornell Cooperative Extension Trolley Building. Orleans CFB members are encouraged to attend the County Annual meeting and join in the policy debate.

Wyoming

Wyoming County Farm Bureau will hold a non-renewal calling night at its meeting in early November. They have also made plans to have a second membership month in February and have a membership committee in place to organize this year's efforts. The Wyoming County Farm Bureau County Annual Meeting will be held Oct. 21 at the Byrnclyff Resort and Conference Center. Dairy policy will be a big topic of conversation at this year's meeting so CFB members are encouraged to attend.

COMMITTEES: Meet the Schultzes

Universal Technical Institute in Chicago specializing in Heating and Air Conditioning.

When asked "Why is Farm Bureau important to you?" the Schultzes answered:

"Farm Bureau is very important to us. There are many opportunities for us to have a positive impact on agriculture. We will continue to talk about our interest in agriculture with people that we meet. We will continue to be involved in leadership organizations within the agricultural industry, such as Farm Bureau and our breed association. We will continue to participate in agricultural functions, such as fairs, shows and other youth development activities. We will continue to operate our own hobby farm and encourage our children to become involved in agricultural activities as they grow older.

"We have had the opportunity to be involved with Farm Bureau at the County, State, and now National level. We see the positive impact that our Farm Bureau involvement has had on our community. We are doing our best to bring awareness of agricultural issues into the public's view. On the local level, our county Young Farmers sponsor a Wine Tasting tent during our county fair. We have an opportunity to read to our son's school for Ag Literacy Day. On the State level we have had the opportunity to work with the other members of the committee to plan and implement the Young Farmer Leadership conference. As members of the American Farm Bureau Young Farmers and Ranchers committee, we have learned how to share our story and the importance of making people aware of the issues facing agriculture. If we don't stand up for agriculture, then who else will?"
