hunt during Open Season ONLY and harvest antlerless deer.

DDP (Deer Damage — Nuisance— Permits)

This type of permit is issued on a case by case basis to landowners based on the amount of deer damage to their crops. The landowner is issued a permit that they can assign to agents. There will be three to five carcass tags issued to harvest antlerless deer only during growing season.

How to Get Permits

Contact the local NYSDEC office for additional information and applications for the DMAP and DDP permits. Apply for DDP's at license issuing town clerks and retail outlets in early August thru Oct 1st each year.

The different programs and permits can help farmers decrease the deer population on their property which would decrease the damage to their crops. If they also required the harvested deer to be donated to the Coalition, this would help to feed the less fortunate in their community.

The Venison Donation Coalition has been feeding the hungry in New York State since its inception 19 years ago. It was started in 1999 when Chemung and Steuben County sportsmen's federations backed up the efforts of the Venison Donation Coalition with funds to pay 2 processors and together they distributed 1000 lbs. of highly nutritious ground venison to those in need.

Since that time, the Venison Donation Coalition has seen tremendous growth due to the partnerships they have formed with organizations and individuals. The Coalition consists of representatives from sportsmen's clubs, non-profit organizations, regional food banks, local food pantries as well as local, state and federal agencies including the Farm Bureau whose objective is to secure funding for the processing and distribution of venison to families in need. With the help of its partners, the Venison Donation Coalition secures funds to pay the meat processors for their services.

Today eight regional food banks support the entire state with the distribution of the meat to those in need. Through the generous donation of deer from the hunters and farmers, the Coalition processes an average of 38 tons of venison each year and more than 4 million servings of highly nutritious meat has been served to individuals and children in need.

Farmers who implement deer management plans and include the Venison Donation Coalition in that plan provide a win/win situation for both themselves and the Coalition.

Trade

will remain at zero tariffs. Since the original NAFTA did not eliminate all tariffs on agricultural trade between the United States and Canada, the USMCA will create new market access opportunities for United States exports to Canada of dairy, poultry, and eggs, and in exchange the United States will provide new access to Canada for dairy, peanuts, processed peanut products, and a limited amount of sugar.

In Mexico, the USMCA includes new provisions to provide science-based trading standards, timely review of products produced through biotechnology and gene editing and new provisions on geographic indications.

American Farm Bureau Federation also is supportive of the new agreement.

"This was a hard-fought win and we commend the administration for all the efforts to solidify the trading relationships we have with our North American neighbors," said Zippy Duvall, AFBF President. "Trade is critical to agriculture, especially trade with our two closest neighbors. The USMCA builds on the success our farmers and ranchers have seen from NAFTA.

While the announcement is good news, the deal reached by negotiators still must be approved by Congress as well as the other two countries. Also, the tariffs on agricultural products that have been costly to New York farmers remain in place. New York Farm Bureau is hopeful that this can be resolved as well.

imposed on agricultural products by the nation's trading partners, most recently in retaliation to tariffs imposed by the federal government. In addition, federal policies relating to visas and other immigration programs have increased restrictions on migrant workers, who are an important part of the agricultural workforce.

market or a farm-to-table restaurant, consider a fresh pint of chocolate milk or fresh cheese from a local farm. Communities in New York State should take the lead to ensure the continued livelihood of farmers.

Unfortunately, low commodity prices, increasing labor costs and other farm inputs have made it difficult for farms to remain profitable. In recognizing the struggles that farmers currently face, Oneida County has focused on priorities to ensure their farms not be forgotten. Farms are integral to the economic well-being of many New York communities and now more than ever, we need to look for solutions and be supportive of actions that will ensure their long-term viability.

Producers May be Eligible for Emergency Conservation Program Assistance

Flooding has caused severe damage in several areas in the Southern Tier portions of New York State. Farms suffering severe damage may be eligible for assistance under the Emergency Conservation Program administered by the Farm Service Agency. For land to be eligible, the natural disaster must create new conservation problems that, if untreated, would:

- be so costly to rehabilitate that Federal assistance is or will be needed to return the land to productive agricultural use
- is unusual and is not the type that would recur frequently in the same area
- affect the productive capacity of the farmland
- impair or endanger the land

A producer qualifying for ECP assistance may receive cost-share levels not to exceed 75 percent of the eligible cost of restoration measures. No producer is eligible for more than $200,000 cost sharing per natural disaster occurrence. The following types of measures may be eligible:

- removing debris from farmland
- grading, shaping, or releveling severely damaged farmland
- restoring permanent fences
- restoring conservation structures and other similar installations

Producers who have suffered a loss from a natural disaster should contract their local County FSA office to request assistance. For more information about ECP, contact your local or visit www.fsa.usda.gov/.

by far a better method so that there is flexibility in the soil sampling to better reflect on farm conditions and soil types.

One of the largest questions NYFB has regarding the permit is the two ways to account for land application rates for permittees, the "Liner Approach" and the "Narrative Approach." NYFB has asked DEC to continue to work with EPA, Cornell University's PRO-Dairy Program and the Department of Agriculture to further develop these approaches. Both approaches seem unworkable for farms in New York, where it is not uncommon for a medium sized farm to have 50 different fields and a large farm to have upwards of a 100 different fields. This approach may work in the western states that have a few large fields, but making calculations on each of these fields seems daunting.

Staff will continue to work with the agencies and other organizations to provide education on the permit and how it will impact our farms and our communities. NYFB remains committed to help New York farms achieve financial and environmental sustainability and we cannot do this without clean water.

A copy of NYFB's Comments can be found on NYFB.org.
