Briggs, founder of Dairy Nutrition Inc. to provide nutritional and management services for farms. Lloyd Vail, Columbia county board of director, and local corn and soybean farmer. The presentation was well attended, diverse questions were presented to the panel from the audience. Columbia County Farm Bureau would like to extend a thank you to the panelists and to the following business's that donated their products for lunch. Thank you, Hudson Valley Fresh, Orange county onion farmers, Staron Farm, and Trowbridge Farm. If it weren't for you, we would of all gone home hungry.

Dutchess Putnam Westchester County
Dutchess Putnam Westchester County Farm Bureau experienced the wrath of this winter more than others in the Hudson Valley. Some going eight days without electricity. As electric companies from all over came to their aid, farmers worked together to keep the farms operating as usual. Dutchess Putnam Westchester County Farm Bureau would like to extend a thank you to all the men and women that worked day and night to assure their farms could continue.

Dutchess Putnam Westchester County Farm Bureau is planning for spring. Working on ways to improve "Farm Night" at the home of the Hudson Valley Renegades. This includes involving more livestock, agriculture related activities and booths that promote agricultural education.
Greene County
Greene County Farm Bureau recently lost its vice president Paul Wais. He was a lifetime resident of Athens. During his lifetime Wais was an accomplished musician. He was a guitarist and lead singer for more than 25 years playing in several different bands. For his entire life, he was a dairy farmer. His farm was one of the last existing dairy farms in Athens. Wais spent what free time he had volunteering and advocating for agriculture. He was a member of The Zion Lutheran Church in Athens, a former member of The Cocksackie Athens Little League serving as board member and coach for many years, and formerly was on the Athens Zoning Board of Appeals. New York Farm Bureau was lucky to have such a caring, passionate, and hardworking man, standing with them.

Orange County
Orange County has provided many training and awareness sessions on the new Food Safety Modernization Act. The intent of the law is to ensure food supply is safe and to shift the focus from responding to contamination to preventing it. It is important for all producers to be informed of the rules and its effective dates. The sessions explained more thoroughly to farmers the new regulations on the way foods are grown, harvested and processed. Including water testing procedures, soil amendments, and proper employee protocols. An inspector from the Department of Agriculture and Markets was present to answer questions on the new certified training process for all employees, and how to be compliant for the unannounced inspections.
Rensselaer County
Rensselaer County Farm Bureau hosted its first agriculture trivia night at Guiseppe's in Hoosick Falls. The event was very well attended, folks enjoyed dinner and drinks while playing trivia. The winning team went home with New York Farm Bureau apparel. The county Farm Bureau was so pleased it is planning another one for this summer, all are welcomed and encouraged to attend

District 8 NYFB membership committee member, Mike Della Rocco organized a Farm Bureau presence for pancake day, at the Hoosick Valley Farmers Exchange. He pulled together Washington, Albany and Rensselaer Counties to encourage Farm Bureau involvement. Rensselaer County Farm Bureau would like to extend a thank you to Mike Della Rocco and Washington County Farm Bureau member Allison Akins for donating a good chunk of their time to promote the importance of the organization.

Ulster County
Ulster County Farm Bureau is a co-sponsor of the "stick to your local farm map." It is a map that lists the location and direction to farms across the county helping to make it adventurous to visit and learn about the farms. More than 15,000 maps will be distributed to Ulster County residents. The maps will be available at Thruway rest stops, schools and all participating farms. Participants collect stickers at each farm with rewards for those who can collect them all. The Ulster County Farm Bureau sticker can be collected at their booth at the Ulster County Fair.
